Critical Facilities as a Service

Coromatic, Critical Facilities as a Service

Digitalization imposes entirely new demands on infrastructure, with seemingly basic aspects such as power supply and data communication becoming crucial for maintaining operations. In the past, data communication was seen as a support function, but is now critical for any organization. This is why we call it mission-critical infrastructure.

As the leading supplier of critical facilities solutions, such as data centers, Coromatic secures access to power supply and data communication. Put simply, we enable companies and organizations to run their operations without disruption 24/7.

Flexible options and low risk

For some businesses investments in highly modern critical infrastructure solutions may represent a financial and operational risk. To address these challenges, Coromatic has developed a comprehensive Critical Facilities as a Service offering.

We make sure your operation is protected from unplanned disruption and make all the necessary investments to ensure no-surprise lifecycle costs, doing so on an ongoing basis according to service level agreements.

There are many benefits for the organization. Allowing us to run your mission-critical infrastructure as a Service means you avoid the need to make large infrastructure investments, but still gives you the possibility for flexibility to meet changing business needs.

Total or partial responsibility, your choice

Coromatic can assume total responsibility and risk for your mission-critical facilities, or for a particular mission-critical function. And we can do so for the entire process, from analysis, strategy and design to implementation, operations and maintenance.

Based on your organization and the specific needs of the different business units, we develop corresponding key performance indicators (KPIs). The KPIs may be specific service levels for functions, or a certain capacity level for the facility. Based on this, we are able to deliver based on recurring fees for the specified term of the agreement.

Coromatic will assume the operational risk for the facility or function, from implementation to service and maintenance, including responsibility for any need to modernize or replace parts of the solution over time.

Our service level agreements guarantee that all required labor, consumables and spare parts are included in the agreed service fee.

Regardless of whether you are planning to build a new data center, ensure critical communications in a building, or if you are looking at ways to improve and futureproof your existing facility, Coromatic can run your mission critical infrastructure as a Service.
